2. A Project Management Series which will include documents on such matters as the general functions and responsibilities of all System Project Directors, special project management arrangements wherein sub-system responsibilities are assigned to more than one Service or Agency (for example: CORONA; etc), etc.
3. A Support Activities Management Series which will include procedural documents on such matters as programming, budgeting, security, film processing and production, etc.

All such NRO directives will be prepared first in draft form and the views of appropriate NRP participants solicited prior to publication. When published, these types of documents will be distributed to all major NRP participants.
